L.O: I am getting better at writing a fully punctuated letter telling the Queen what we learnt about London.

Today we are going to be writing a letter to the Queen! Hopefully we will get a reply.

I would like you to tell the Queen about everything you have learnt about London from the story 'Katie in London'.

To begin with, I would like you to make a note about everything you can remember about London. This could be telling me that it is a very busy city, Trafalgar Square has Lions, St Paul's Cathedral has a giant dome, the Tower of London is where the Queen's jewels are and Tower Bridge stretches over the river Thames and the bridge raises when ships sail through.

Next, I would like you to think about how we structure a formal letter. This means we need to have our address in the top right-hand side with the date underneath. The Queen's address: Buckingham Palace, London on the left-hand side beneath the date. We need to make sure the correct punctuation is used, so we will be looking for capital letters and full stops among others.

Why not tell the Queen about where you live? How is it different to London and what landmarks we have local to us.

I look forward to reading your letters.
