L.O: I am getting better at using root question words.

Today in English we are looking at the story 'Vlad and The Great Fire of London'.

I would like you to think of some questions you would like to ask Vlad. Remember to use root question words, these are: who, what, when, where and why.

When you have your questions, I would like you to pretend that you are Vlad and answer them.

If you could record you asking someone your questions it would be nice to see! If you would like to write your questions and answers that would also be nice to see.
